

Dear IMS Members,

For many years, I have proudly been a member of the International Team of the Jungfreisinnige, passionately advocating for the concerns of the youth at both LYMEC and IFLRY. Unfortunately, in recent years my organization has increasingly developed in a direction that I cannot support. I lost to a big part my political home. I know many of you share a comparable story, either losing their political home or never really having found one in the first place.

But nonetheless my time with LYMEC has been an incredible journey that has shaped me in many ways. I am now motivated to extend my engagement to advocate for a more liberal and freer Europe as IMS Delegate within LYMEC.

My involvement as a member of the LYMEC Delegation will entail me consistently striving to find common ground and negotiate compromises. Through my participation in the Policy Renewal working groups through the last years, I have become intimately familiar with the LYMEC Policy.

One of our core responsibilities within LYMEC is not only to advocate for the voices of young people but also for young people from non-European Union member states. Given that the decisions made by the EU have a profound impact on our shared future all over Europe, it is essential to ensure that these voices are heard within the European liberal movement as well.

Over the years, I have improved my skills in crafting and advocating for resolutions within my own party, a role I take great pride in. My extensive experience, coupled with my passion for advocating the policies that shape our future, make me the ideal candidate to represent IMS Members at LYMEC Congress. The friendships within our international liberal community, despite our varying political stances, only serve to underscore the importance of LYMEC's role in promoting freedom and diversity throughout Europe.

The driving force behind my motivation is our shared belief that we, the youth, are the future, and together we have the power to enact change.

I am committed to actively fostering diversity of opinion within our ranks and representing a broad spectrum of political views and to always respect and represent LYMECs and especially IMS Sections interests and positions.

I am the pragmatic voice that will represent our interests with unwavering conviction and passion. I wholeheartedly believe in the values that underpin our liberal movement, and I am dedicated to ensuring that these principles continue to guide our actions and decisions.

It would be a tremendous honour for me to represent you all at LYMEC. I am excited to contribute to the ongoing discussions, debates, and policy-making processes that shape the future of our continent and our lives.

Together, we can create positive change, and I am committed to working collaboratively with all of you to drive this agenda forward.

Sincerely,

Fabian Grepper
